Deafness.

"Worst of all was my hearing. I felt roaring noises in my ears, and I grew very deaf. If any one spoke to me he would have to repeat his remarks over and over before I could hear it.

"Some months ago I went to Dr. Copeland and Gardner for treatment. I improved so rapidly that I was delighted. Although there were many things to retard my recovery I soon got well. Now I have no more headaches, my nose and throat are clear and free. I eat well and sleep beautifully and have gained in weight and strength. Furthermore my hearing has been restored. I am more than pleased to add my testimonial to the thousands of others who have expressed publicly in praise of the skill of Drs. Copeland and Gardner."

LOSS OF LIFE IS FEARED

Escape of Women and Children
Shut Off at a Duluth Fire.

DULUTH, June 21.—The Dunnett Building, a five-story frame structure, was destroyed by fire shortly after midnight last morning. The building was a four-story two saloons and two newspaper plants. Eighteen people, most of them women and children, occupied the upper story.

The loss is about $40,000, and the insurance will not exceed $12,000.

There is every reason to fear a loss of life, though no deaths can be secured. Chief Smith, of the Fire Department, states that when he arrived women and children were at the windows, but that before the ladders could be raised all escape in that direction was cut off.

Those who did escape saved nothing out their night-clothes. They scattered at once and no list can be made.

MADISON, Wis., June 21.—The home of L. Van Dusen was destroyed by fire yesterday, one child being cremated, another badly burned and a domestic, Theresa Rink, so badly burned that she is not expected to live. The fire was caused by the explosion of a five-gallon NASHVILLE, June 21.—Taurent & Co.'s carpenter shop was burned last night by the paint shop, tool-house and shed of the United Electric Railway and several stables. Total loss, $13,000. A wall fell and crushed Firemen John Gorman and Vassardale. Both are seriously injured.

night, and in twenty minutes lay in ruins, a total loss. The blaze was so hot that the Fire Department was driven back, and the distillery and stockyard buildings were in imminent danger of destruction. At 12.35, however, a heavy rain storm came up, the first in three weeks, and saved the adjoining buildings. The loss to the barrel works is $80,000. Insurance $30,000.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 21.—A fire last night, calling out the entire Fire Department, damaged the stock of R. H. Hoskins, dealer in agricultural implements, to the extent of $50,000. It is covered by insurance.

ERIE AND NEW ENGLAND UNITED

Vanderbilts Have a Competitor from Boston to Chicago.

The announcement was made to-day that the Erie and New York and New England railroads have entered into a joint traffic alliance for through business between Boston and Chicago. The arrangement, which has been under consideration for some time, will enable the Erie to compete with the New York Central and the Pennsylvania.

The New England will reach the Erie over the Hudson, at Newburg and the Poughkeepsie Bridge, and will form a competitor to the Pittsburgh road of through business out of Boston.

It was said in railroad circles to-day that the hand of President McLeod was visible in the deal in inaugurating a competitor to the Vanderbilts.

DIED OF A TWISTED NECK.

James Purcell, a Driver for Brennan,
Held for Causing O'Brien's Death.

Principal Injuries Received in a Tussle on a Barroom Floor.

James Purcell, a driver in the Street-cleaning Department, was remanded in Jefferson Market Court this morning, charged with homicide, in causing the Purcell is thirty-five years old, and lives at a room at 785 Washington street, near Patrick Mulry's saloon. O'Brien is twenty-two, and lives at 233 West Twelfth street, near the park. He is anything but recently.

At the time of the murder in Mulry's saloon last night, Purcell was talking with Mulry and O'Brien, who was said to be the man who shot O'Brien. O'Brien, who, according to Mulry, accosted Purcell and had some quarrel with him. The two men grappled, and fell to the floor, O'Brien uppermost.

Purcell was the stronger and soon succeeded in getting on his feet. The bystanders then separated the men.

Purcell went up to his room and changed his clothing.

Police man McCabe, of the Charles street station, was called in, and as it was late in the evening, McCabe called an ambulance and had him removed to St. Vincent's Hospital.

When the ambulance arrived, the man's arm and hand were badly injured, and his neck was broken. He was taken to the hospital, where he remained unconscious until he died.

Purcell claims that he is not to be held responsible for the death of O'Brien. He says he only used force enough to protect himself. The witnesses will be called.

CARLETON TALKS BACK.

The Dramatist Defies Vigorously that He Is in Hard Luck.

Henry Guy Carleton, the dramatist, makes vigorous exception to the statements made by Beers Barnes, lawyer for S. L. Morison, in the City Court yesterday. Mr. Carleton was not present, and first learned of the proceedings when he read "The Evening Herald."

"The whole trouble arose," he said "this morning, from my properly defining the amount of cash to pay an alleged balance of $40 cents claimed by Barnes, when the arithmetic showed that it was only $27.71. Morison, according to Barnes's statement to my attorney, assigned this claim to Barnes in order that the correct figure should be squeezed all he can out of it. When my attorney proved that $27.71 was the correct figure this figure was pushed into the court to get additional costs."

"As to Morison, I have a counter-suit against him for nearly $200, not including interest or costs, and it will be a long time before he can get out of my hands."

The statements that I am in hard luck and that the team going sailing to two survivors, are quite on a par with the one that my play, 'A Gilded Fool,' in which I have been playing the part of a cross of over a quarter of a million dollars since Sept. 1, is a failure."

STORM AND ICEBERGS.

The schooner and Bark Damaged by the Former—The Peruvian Sights Twenty-eight Berge.

The schooner Addie E. McFadden arrived early to-day from Maracaibo, after a voyage of twenty-one days. On this day the schooner encountered a storm that lasted ten hours. The gale struck the vessel so suddenly that she was thrown on her beam ends. Her mainmast and foremast were blown down, and the main-topmast went by the board. The bark L. Hagen, from South America, was also encountered the same storm on June 17, and lost her main-topmast and fore-topmast.

Affecting 19,000 Steel Workers.
PITTSBURGH, June 21.—The first conference of the Joint Committee to the amalgamated Workers and Manufacturers to fix a scale of wages for the ensuing year has resulted in a serious disagreement. There are 19,000 workers in the mills of the city employing 12,000 men, and if a settlement is not reached before July 1 these mills will close.
